ADVANCE ANNOUNCEMENT & REGISTRATION INFORMATION
Contact Dermatitis 2010: Blending Science with Best Practice

A Joint Meeting of the Experimental Contact Dermatitis Research Group and the American Contact Dermatitis Society

Contact Dermatitis 2010 is a 3 day meeting focused on current issues in allergic, irritant atopic, occupational and other dermatoses. Presentations include abstract and poster presentations on state-of-the-art research in the basic, applied and clinical science of these disorders.

Topics covered include T cell biology, Implant Dermatitis, Beard Dermatitis, Melasma, Atopic Dermatitis, Emergent Allergens among others.

Needs Statement Contact dermatitis and inflammatory skin disease are evolving fields that require periodic updates.

Purpose This conference is intended to bring physicians and industry professionals together to discuss the basic, applied and clinical science of contact dermatitis with the goal of identifying causes of contact dermatitis and understanding prognosis of skin inflammation and developing better treatments.

Learning Objectives Upon completion of this CME activity, participants should be able to:

- Recognize the results of current and evolving research in the areas of contact, irritant atopic, occupational and other dermatoses;
- Gain insight into testing of products for potential allergic or irritant reactions;
- Update knowledge about recent advances in the diagnosis, management, and treatment of allergic, irritant and occupational skin diseases;
- Review and interpret basic knowledge and skills pertaining to epicutaneous patch testing;
- Integrate new principles to improve everyday practice of dermatology.

Audience The participants include a diverse group of practitioners and scientists who share a common interest in contact dermatitis, including investigators (academia, government, and industry), toxicologists, dermatologists, regulators, occupational health scientists, trainees and students.

Abstract Submissions The meeting format includes a succession of short (10-15 minute) presentations interspersed with more-in-depth lectures by invited keynote speakers.

Abstracts are currently being accepted online at www.contactderm.org for oral presentations. Abstracts should include the title, authors, institutions and not exceed 300 words. The deadline for submissions is August 30, 2010.

ECDRG  Established in 1999, the goal of the Experimental Contact Research Group is to discuss the basic and applied science of contact dermatitis. This is done primarily through this meeting which is held every 24 months and is modeled on the European Research Group on Experimental Contact Dermatitis. The inaugural meeting of the ECDRG (1999 in Cincinnati) was hosted by industry (the Procter & Gamble Company). Subsequent meetings took place in Dallas (2001), Cleveland (2002), Bethesda (2004), Baltimore (2006) and in Montreal (2008).

ACDS  Founded in 1989, the mission of the American Contact Dermatitis Society (ACDS) is to promote, support, develop and stimulate information about contact dermatitis and occupational skin disease for improved patient care. Members include dermatologists, allergists, physicians, researchers, nurses and health care professionals.

Dermatitis  Dermatitis is the official journal of the ACDS and ECDRG. This quarterly, peer-reviewed journal, under the direction of Editor-in-Chief Ponciano D. Cruz, MD, provides clinically focused articles on diagnosis and treatment of dermatologic conditions caused by irritants and allergic reactions. Available online, Dermatitis, is searchable and accessible anywhere there is an internet connection. The journal is free with an ACDS membership or to order a subscription, please call 1-800-568-7281 or visit www.bcdecker.com.

CME CREDITS  This activity has been planned and implemented in accordance with the Essential Areas & Policies of the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education through joint sponsorship of The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center and the American Contact Dermatitis Society. The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center is accredited by the ACCME to provide continuing medical education for physicians. The University of Texas Southwestern Medical Center will determine the number of credits upon finalization of the program schedule.

Physicians should only claim credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
