

Rosemary DeShazo, MD

Position Nominated for:

Board of Director

Present Academic and/or Clinical Affiliations:

University of Utah Health

Intermountain Health

Medical School:

Vanderbilt University School of Medicine; 2004

Residency Program:

University of Utah; Internal Medicine 2007,

Dermatology 2016

Board Certification:

American Board of Dermatology, expires 2026

ACDS Activities:

2023 ACDS Fall Meeting Committee, Co-Chair

Fisher Award and Lectureship Committee, Member

American Contact Dermatitis Society Mentorship Award Recipient 2019

Other national, state and local dermatology/professional societies:

American Academy of Dermatology

Medical Dermatology Society

Dermatology Hospitalist Society

Utah Medical Society

Utah Dermatology Society

Medical Society, government or professional appointments, awards and honors:

Areas of Excellence Committee Member for Contact Dermatitis, 2018 – present

Create academic and clinical goals for our local area of excellence in allergic contact dermatitis.

Area of Excellence Committee Member Dermatology Hospitalist Program, 2018 – 2023

Create clinical and academic goals for our local dermatology hospitalist program.

Academic Working Group, Department of Dermatology, University of Utah School of Medicine, 2018 – present

Collective decision making on financial support for junior faculty career development (i.e. committee approval of travel reimbursement, etc. for invited lectures and similar opportunities).

Resident Evaluation Committee Member, 2017 – 2023

Review resident performance to assure progression and development of successful dermatologists in our residency program, in addition to subjective feedback.

Candidate Statement:

Contact dermatitis has been part of my clinical practice for the last eight years. More recently, I have shifted my practice to full time contact dermatitis, while stepping away from hospitalist and general dermatology. The ACDS is a unique medical society in my opinion, with members that share a sincere interest in education, clinical and academic advancement. I would look forward to getting to know my ACDS colleagues better, and participating in the ongoing progress of the society.