A CME activity jointly provided by FIU HWCOM
and the American Contact Dermatitis Society
26th Annual Meeting of the ACDS

The 26th Annual Meeting of the ACDS is a full day focused on current issues in allergic, irritant, occupational and other dermatoses. Presentations include oral and poster presentations on state-of-the-art research in the basic, applied and clinical science of contact dermatitis.

NEEDS STATEMENT

The 26th Annual Meeting of the American Contact Dermatitis Society is a full day focused on current issues in allergic, irritant, occupational and other dermatoses including atopic dermatitis. Presentations include oral and poster abstract presentations on state-of-the-art research in the basic, applied and clinical science of contact dermatitis as well as interdisciplinary treatment of contact and atopic dermatoses. A Contact Dermatitis DMOC exam session is offered as an option.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

As a result of participating in this activity, participants should be able to:

1. Recognize the results of current and evolving research in the areas of contact, irritant, occupational and other dermatoses.
2. Integrate new principles to improve their everyday practice of dermatology.
3. Self-assess their competencies in the field of Contact Dermatitis.
4. Recognize the interdisciplinary aspects of research, diagnosis, management and treatment of atopic and contact dermatitis.

COURSE DIRECTORS

Cory Dunnick, MD – Chair, Annual Meeting Committee
Committee Members:  Amber Atwater, MD
Gillian de Gannes, MD
Michael Sheehan, MD
Brian Machler, MD
Christen Mowad, MD – DMOC Module

AUDIENCE

The primary target audience of the American Contact Dermatitis Society's Annual Meeting is its members. Secondary audiences for the meeting include dermatology residents, basic scientists, nonmember dermatologists, allergists, patch test coordinators, researchers, and industry personnel.

This conference is intended to bring physicians and industry professionals together at various levels of knowledge and skills to acquire awareness, knowledge and skills in contact dermatitis for the exchange of information about the basic, applied, and clinical science of contact dermatitis and the skin.

The content of this meeting addresses learners who are new to diagnosing allergic contact dermatitis through patch testing with a breakout session focused on basic clinical procedures. Experienced dermatologists with a strong knowledge of contact dermatitis and patch testing may attend a maintenance of certification session approved by the American Board of Dermatology.

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

6th CONTACT ALLERGEN BEE

We are pleased to announce the 6th Contact Allergen Bee, a contest for dermatology residents sponsored by DERMATITIS. Winners will be awarded up to $1000 (and up to $2000 in total prizes). The contest will be held Thursday, March 19, 2015 during the annual meeting of the American Contact Dermatitis Society (ACDS). Although not required, we strongly encourage attendance at the meeting in which residents can register at a discounted rate (visit www.contactderm.org).

How to join? Have your residency director or a faculty member in your program who is an ACDS member submit your name, email address, and phone number to ponciano.cruz@utsouthwestern.edu no later than February 19, 2015. You must be a resident in good standing at the time of the contest. Previous non-winning contestants may rejoin. Entries are limited to 2 representatives per program. Content of questions is based on papers published in DERMATITIS from 2011 through 2014.

Please direct questions to Chito Cruz at ponciano.cruz@utsouthwestern.edu. We look forward to your participation and potential coronation as King or Queen Bee!

FISHER LECTURER

The American Contact Dermatitis Society is pleased to announce that the 2015 Alexander Fisher Lecturer is Andrew Scheman, MD who will discuss “Contact Allergy Cross-Reactors”.

The Alexander Fisher Lectureship is awarded in honor of Alexander Fisher, MD in recognition of his contributions to the field of contact dermatitis. The lecturer is selected by committee based on his or her contributions to contact dermatitis, reflection of the spirit of Dr. Fisher’s enthusiasm for the subject of contact dermatitis, and for sharing knowledge and experience in evaluating patients.

MAINTENANCE OF CERTIFICATION EXAMINATION IN CONTACT DERMATITIS

For the first time, a Maintenance of Certification (MOC) Module in Contact Dermatitis will be offered in an optional second-track. It will be held on Thursday, March 10, 2014 from 9:00 am – 10:00 am. Registrants will receive CME credit for participation. The module will include 25 self-assessment questions. The fee is $50.00 for ACDS members and $100.00 for non-members.

PRE-MEETING BREAKFAST

Fragrance mixtures are ubiquitous in consumer products and are composed of a variety of ingredients. Estimations by the industry suggest about 3000 materials are in use by IFRA members (International Fragrance Association www.ifraorg.org). Some of these ingredients, from natural as well as synthetic origin, possess well-known allergenic potential. Learn how these Standards are established in order to reduce the allergenic potential as much as possible.

Dr. Matthias Vey is a chemist by training. Since 2000 he has served as the Scientific Director of IFRA, located in Brussels, Belgium. He is responsible for the management of the fragrance industry’s worldwide voluntary regulatory program, including the IFRA Code of Practice and the therein contained Standards for the safe use of fragrance ingredients. He manages IFRA’s science related committees and technical communication as well as the IFRA’s compliance program.

ROUNDTABLE LUNCHEON

The 2015 Annual Meeting will again include a Luncheon which will feature the 6th Annual Contact Allergen Bee. Space will be limited; be sure to sign up. The Lunch Session is supported by an unrestricted educational grant from Chemotechnique/Dormer. Session is included with registration but requires a ticket with your table number. Seats are randomly assigned so members have an opportunity to meet new members.
